

Thanks for ruining the moment.

Well, thanks for the story.

Thanks for seeing me.

Well, thanks for finally seeing me.

Hey, thanks for a wonderful dinner.

Thanks for coming out with me tonight, Amelia.

Thanks for coming to my clinic.

By the way, thanks for the sandwich.

Thanks for taking care of him.

Thanks for walking me home.

It's great seeing you like this.

It's great seeing you. Good seeing you too, man.

It's great seeing you again, too.

It's great seeing you too.

We assist with everything possible.

We are here to assist you.

Miss White may be able to assist you.

Needless to say, this office will do anything to assist you and your cousins.

The exercises will assist you.

All right, the rest of you will assist him.

I'm Libby. I'm here to assist you.

Is there any way I can assist?

How can I assist you, sir?

I prefer to employ women to assist me in my work.

Just a second. Hello. Jefferson, you can't go to the conference.

Oh, no. I'm sorry. Mr. Baskin is still in conference.

and I'll see you at the parent conference. Hold on!

You can come to the news conference with the rest of them.

I met him at a design conference in New Orleans a year ago.

We'd be very interested to find the man who bought those.

About being interested to see what she'd choose.

I'm interested to see what you'll choose.

Let's just say I'm interested to see your report on what happened.

I'm interested to see who you blame

I'm sure he'd be very interested to hear from you.

Well, at least that solves the great mystery as to how you became inspector.

Aren't you curious as to how that's possible?

And did you ever give a thought as to how you'd do it?

Ain't you ever curious as to why your mama wants to keep us apart?

I'm a little unclear as to why the museum would send somebody here.

I'm sure it's quite a mystery as to where you are and who I am.

I think we're going to struggle here.

I don't want you to have to struggle like your mother and I did.

Do you really want to give it all up just to struggle?

You guys don't know how tough it is not to struggle.

Hold still! It won't help to struggle.

Great. He's poor, this wrestler. He's had to struggle.

Thank you for the compliment.

Did you just compliment me?

I think that's a compliment.

Come on. I'm giving you a compliment.

Mr. Van Doren, I want to compliment you for that statement.

I'm not sure that was meant as a compliment.

Can't a guy give a girl a compliment anymore?

That's maybe the best compliment of my life.

Excuse me for asking this, but it's important that you tell me the truth.

It's important that you don't let them smell your fear.

But it's important that you know that he did a great thing.

How will you be able to pay for private tutoring?

You find some football player who needs tutoring, and he helps you get girls.

Uh, would you mind, like, tutoring me?

We need to talk. I'm tutoring.

I've been tutoring this boy.

Yeah, we got a tutor for her once a week, and I do these exercises with her, every night really.

I'll be able to pay for next year's tuition and pay you back for last year.

Your dad and I will barely be able to afford instate tuition.

I cannot imagine that you would ever want to pay the tuition.

We don't have a lot of money for tuition.

If I quit, my father won't pay my tuition.

I'm trying to pay for my daughter's tuition.

I have some library books that are overdue.

Your friend Rafi Domingo. Two months overdue.

You'll just be wasting a lot of time following up on overdue work.

The book's quite overdue. We sent out several notices.

Worry less, smile more.
